

Rebecca Harding Davis at ALA 2019

Deadline for Submissions: January 18, 2019

Full name / Name of organization:

The Society for the Study of Rebecca Harding Davis and Her World

Contact Email:

grays@moval.edu; ajrovan@mix.wvu.edu

New Directions in Davis Scholarship (Both Panels)

The Society for the Study of Rebecca Harding Davis and Her World welcomes proposals for two sessions at the next meeting of the American Literature Association. The conference will be held May 23-26, 2019 in Boston, MA.

We are interested in proposals that engage in any aspect of Davis's work. We welcome new readings of her most well-known work, "Life in the Iron-Mills," as well as analyses of her numerous other neglected writings.

We encourage contributors to utilize some of the new resources that have become available on Davis, including the books Rebecca Harding Davis: A Life Among Writers by Sharon Harris (2018) and Stories for Boys, collected and edited by Robin Cadwallader (2018) as well as the Complete Digitized Works collection, which can be accessed at:

<http://rebeccahardingdaviscompleteworks.com/>

Please send a 200-250 word abstract to:

Sarah Gray (grays@moval.edu) and Aaron Rován (ajrovan@mix.wvu.edu)

Presenters must be members of the Society for the Study of Rebecca Harding Davis and Her World. For information about joining the society, please contact Robin Cadwallader, president of the society, at RCadwallader@francis.edu.

Categories: American, Bibliography and History of the Book, Children's Literature, Cultural Studies and Historical Approaches, General Announcements