

The Bishop Society has organized two panels for the upcoming ALA conference in 2019 and will not have an open call this year. The Society anticipates returning to its practice of including an open call next year.