Acknowledgements:

The Conference Director, along with the Executive Board of the ALA, wishes to thank all of the society representatives and panelists for their contributions to the conference. Special appreciation to those who good-heartedly agreed to chair sessions. In addition, The Association expresses its gratitude to The Department of English at Georgia Southern University for its consistent support. Particular thanks to our Executive Assistants and recent Georgia Southern University MA graduates, Savannah Barrow, Maegan Bishop, Holly Garrett, Michaela Smith, and April Trepagnier for their countless efforts in support of the conference, months before and on site.

I speak on behalf of all attendees in expressing our sincerest thanks to Alfred Bendixen, Princeton University, Founder and Executive Director of the American Literature Association, for his 36 years of devoted service. The Association also extends its gratitude to Kirk Curnutt and Leslie Petty, Executive Coordinators of the ALA, and Rene H. Treviño, Director of Digital Resources and Margaret Rose Edenfield, Creative Associate. Special appreciation to Executive Board Member James Nagel for his long service to the ALA. We are particularly grateful for his efforts in bringing the esteemed writer Julia Alvarez to Boston. My deepest appreciation as always goes to my husband, Daniel.

Olivia Carr Edenfield, Georgia Southern University
 Director, American Literature Association

Best wishes from the Executive Board for a successful conference.

ALA Land Acknowledgement:

The Westin Copley Place, in which we have gathered to share our scholarly explorations of American literary culture, sits on the traditional homelands of the Massachusett people, an area that has long been a site of meeting and exchange for different nations and communities, including their neighbors: the Pawtucket, the Wampanoag, and Nipmuck. We pay our respect to the Indigenous caretakers of these lands and waters who have lived here, who live here now, and who will live here in the future.

A Note on A/V Equipment:

The 2025 American Literature Association conference will provide a digital projector and screen for the sessions in Empire, Great Republic, Helicon, Courier, St George A, St. George D, Essex North-East, and Essex North-West during the entire conference. Individuals will need to provide their own laptops and are encouraged to provide their own cables or dongles to hook up with the projector, particularly if using a Mac or Ipad. There is no Zoom or internet capability in any of the rooms. A technician will be available during the conference to answer any questions or help with set-up. Once the conference begins, it is no longer possible to add additional a/v equipment to the sessions.

Sessions scheduled for AV are in St. George A, St. George D, Essex North-East, Essex North-West, Empire, Great Republic, Helicon, and Courier.

A Note on Navigating the Conference Space in the Westin Copley Place:

The conference takes place on the third and seventh floor of the hotel. The third-floor space includes our registration desk, our book exhibit, and all sessions in the Essex and St. George rooms as well as the Staffordshire Ballroom and the Essex Ballroom. All other meeting rooms are on the seventh floor. You can reach the third floor via escalator, but you will need to use the elevator to reach the seventh-floor rooms. Please consult the map on the back of the program

The Raven's Trail Walking Tour of Poe's Boston

The Bostonians are very well in their way. Their hotels are bad.
 Their pumpkin-pies are delicious. Their poetry is not so good.
 —Edgar Allan Poe, November 1845

This 90-minute tour explores Poe's connections to Boston, from his birth here in 1809 to his return as a young man in 1827 and his controversial appearance before the Boston Lyceum in 1845. Though Poe spent less than a year living in Boston, he was intensely engaged throughout his career with the writers and editors he called "Frogpondians" and "Crazyites." Sites visited include the likely Poe birthplace, Edgar Allan Poe Square, the grave of Charles Sprague (called the Banker-Poet of Boston), the Frog Pond, the Soldiers and Sailors Monument on Boston Common, and the King's Chapel Burying Ground.

Your guide is Paul Lewis, Boston College Professor of English Emeritus, past president of the Poe Studies Association, editor of The Citizen Poets of Boston: A Collection of Forgotten Poems, 1789–1820, and author of Quothin' "The Raven": The First Responses to America's Most Famous Poem (forthcoming from Mercer University Press).

The tours will run in all but truly inclement weather and start promptly at 4 p.m.
 Starting Place: In front of the Found Hotel, 78 Charles Street South, Boston, MA 02116
 Cost: $20 (cash or check); no advance booking. Questions? paul.lewis@bc.edu

Opening Reception and Featured Reader
Julia Alvarez

All conference attendees are cordially invited to attend the reception, reading, and book signing.

Julia Alvarez was born in New York in 1950, but the family moved back to the Dominican Republic a few months later despite their opposition to the dictatorship of Rafael Trujillo. Finding themselves in a threatening situation, they returned to Queens in 1960, where her father practiced medicine and she struggled to adjust to a new culture and a difficult language. She eventually graduated from Middlebury College and went on to take a master's degree in creative writing from Syracuse University. Since then she has taught at a number of institutions before becoming a professor of creative writing at Middlebury. Her husband is an ophthalmologist, and together they live on a farm in Vermont.

She published How the Garcia Girls Lost Their Accents, a celebrated story cycle, in 1991 followed four years later by her most famous novel, In the Time of the Butterflies, a stirring account of the brutal murder of the three Mirabel sisters in the Dominican Republic because of their political resistance to the Trujillo regime. The book sold more than 100,000 copies and won a score of literary awards including the National Book Critics Circle Award in 1995. In 2024 she published The Cemetery of Untold Stories, set in the Dominican Republic and New York. Her autobiographical Something to Declare contains entertaining reflections on her life and work.

(Houghton Library, Harvard University, Cambridge)
The Howells Archive

The William Dean Howells Society is pleased to announce a special event to be held at Harvard University's Houghton Library in conjunction with the 36th Annual Conference of the American Literature Association.

Please join us for this rare opportunity to view a selection of documents from the Houghton's Howells archive. The library's collection includes book manuscripts, unpublished works, personal belongings, and a substantial collection of Howells's correspondence with friends, family, Presidents of the United States, and colleagues such as Mark Twain, Henry James, Stephen Crane, Theodore Dreiser, Paul Laurence Dunbar, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Mary Wilkins Freeman, Hamlin Garland, Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Bret Harte, Sarah Orne Jewett, Frank Norris, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and many others.

Letters from Mark Twain, Henry James, and Edith Wharton, among others, will be on display, as well as the complete manuscript of The Quality of Mercy (1891).

Space is limited for this special exhibit. For this reason, and so we can plan accordingly, we ask that all those who are interested in attending RSVP to Andrew Ball (andrew_ball@emerson.edu). All are welcome.

Travelling from the Westin in Copley Square to Harvard University is relatively quick and easy. Detailed directions will be provided to attendees prior to the event.

The William Dean Howells Society is pleased to offer this hands-on opportunity to examine treasured American literary artifacts. Pre-register today to reserve your place!

A staged reading of Inheritors, a play by Susan Glaspell, organized by the International Susan Glaspell Society.

This session presents a staged reading of Glaspell's play (abridged by Cheryl Black) with a post-show discussion to follow.

When Susan Glaspell's Inheritors premiered in 1921, America was in the throes of a postwar conservative backlash, as the "100 % Americanism" movement fostered attitudes of isolationism, nationalism, xenophobia, racism, and the suppression of free speech. The play centers on the impact of the movement on a college campus – students from India deported for anti-colonial activism, a student imprisoned for violating the Espionage Act, a professor pressured to keep quiet on political issues, and the political awakening of the play's central character. Described by actor/director Eva Le Gallienne as a "burning challenge to America," the play remains profoundly relevant today.

Graduate Student Mixer and Meeting: The ALA Graduate Student Organization

Chairs:

Kirk Curnutt, Troy University, ALA Executive Coordinator

April Trepagnier, Georgia Southern University, ALA Executive Assistant

The Executive Board of the American Literature Association wishes to welcome all graduate students to a reception for an engaging time of fellowship as we start conversations to begin the ALA Graduate Student Organization.

At the end of the meeting, we invite you to share a drink and light hors d'oeuvres, to relax, and to get to know others in your field. For those of you attending your first ALA event, we extend our warmest welcome. Please feel free to ask questions and to get involved. For those returners on the program, welcome back! We hope that you all have a wonderful conference.

Opening Reception and Featured Reading

All participants in the 34th Annual American Literature Association Conference are invited to attend the opening reception and featured reading, and book signing.

Featured Reader: Julia Alvarez

Julia Alvarez was born in New York in 1950, but the family moved back to the Dominican Republic a few months later despite their opposition to the dictatorship of Rafael Trujillo. Finding themselves in a threatening situation, they returned to Queens in 1960, where her father practiced medicine and she struggled to adjust to a new culture and a difficult language. She eventually graduated from Middlebury College and went on to take a master's degree in creative writing from Syracuse University. Since then she has taught at a number of institutions before becoming a professor of creative writing at Middlebury. Her husband is an ophthalmologist, and together they live on a farm in Vermont.

She published How the Garcia Girls Lost Their Accents, a celebrated story cycle, in 1991 followed four years later by her most famous novel, In the Time of the Butterflies, a stirring account of the brutal murder of the three Mirabel sisters in the Dominican Republic because of their political resistance to the Trujillo regime. The book sold more than 100,000 copies and won a score of literary awards including the National Book Critics Circle Award in 1995. In 2024 she published The Cemetery of Untold Stories, set in the Dominican Republic and New York. Her autobiographical Something to Declare contains entertaining reflections on her life and work.

Tracy K. Smith, the recipient of the Stephen E. Henderson Award, is a Professor of English and African and African American Studies at Harvard University and the Susan S. and Kenneth L. Wallach Professor at the Harvard Radcliffe Institute. She served two terms as the national Poet Laureate from 2017-2019 and in 2012 won the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry for her 2011 collection Life on Mars. Her other poetry collections include The Body's Question (2003), Duende (2007), Wade in the Water (2018), and Such Color: New and Selected Poems (2021). She's also written a memoir Ordinary Light (2015) and memoir-manifesto To Free the Captives: A Plea for the American Soul (2023), which was named Time magazine's and the Washington Post's Best Book of the Year. Smith's many accolades include being awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship, the Harold Washington Literary Award, the Academy Fellowship of the Academy of American Poets, the Harvard Arts Medal, the Columbia Medal for Excellence, a Smithsonian Ingenuity Award, and an Essence Literary Award. She is a Chancellor of the Academy of American Poets and an elected member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the American Philosophical Society.

Farah Jasmine Griffin, the recipient of the Darwin T. Turner Award, is the William B. Ransford Professor of English and Comparative Literature and African American Studies at Columbia University and was previously the inaugural Chair of the African American and African Diaspora Studies department. She's also served as Director-Elect of the Columbia University Institute for Research in African American Studies (IRAAS) and was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship in 2021. Griffin has authored or edited over eight books including "Who Set You Flowin'?: The African-American Migration Narrative (1995), Beloved Sisters and Loving Friends: Letters from Rebecca Primus of Royal Oak, Maryland, and Addie Brown of Hartford, Connecticut, 1854-1868 (1999), If You Can't Be Free, Be a Mystery: In Search of Billie Holiday (2001), Uptown Conversation: The New Jazz Studies (2004), Clawing at the Limits of Cool: Miles Davis, John Coltrane, and the Greatest Jazz Collaboration Ever (2008), Harlem Nocturne: Women Artists and Progressive Politics During World War II (2013), Read Until You Understand: The Profound Wisdom of Black Life and Literature (2021), and In Search of a Beautiful Freedom: New and Selected Essays (2023). Her work appears in The New York Times, The Daily Guardian, Harper's Bazaar, and Art Forum, among others.

Shirley Moody-Turner, the recipient of the Octavia E. Butler Award in Memory of Consuela Francis, is an Associate Professor of English and African American Studies at Penn State University and founding Co-Director of the Center for Black Digital Research there. She is the Faculty Director of the Black Women's Organizing Archive (BWOA), a digital humanities project that seeks to bring together the scattered archives of nineteenth and early twentieth-century Black women organizers. She's also the Founding Director of the Cooper-Du Bois Mentoring Program which, since its inception, has provided support to nearly 100 students interested in pursuing graduate study in African American literature, language, and culture. Her books include Black Folklore and the Politics of Racial Representation (2013), African American Literature in Transition, 1900-1910 (2021), and The Portable Anna Julia Cooper (2022). Her work appears in The Journal of American Folklore, Legacy: A Journal of American Women Writers, MELUS, and African American Review, among others. Moody-Turner is co-editor of the book series Black Print and Organizing in the Long Nineteenth Century with UPenn Press and an upcoming special issue forum for Legacy: A Journal of American Women Writers on the Black Women's Organizing Archive. She's been awarded various fellowships and residencies from the National Humanities Center, Ford Foundation, and the Hutchins Center for African and African American Research. She is currently working on an Anna Julia Cooper biography entitled Courageous Revolt: Anna Julia Cooper and the Making of a Black Woman Intellectual.

Session 17-J Passing It On I (Staffordshire)

Moderator and Chair: Richard Kopley, Penn State DuBois

Regarding that which is most valuable in our profession, our late friend and colleague Joel Myerson encouraged Daniel Shealy to "pass it on" to others. Perhaps it could be a rare object or a remarkable discovery or an archival tip or a critical idea or a valuable piece of advice or simply the pleasure of the work. The two round-table discussions titled "Passing It On" will focus on what has been passed on to us, what we have passed on to others, and what we would like to pass on to those gathered in the room. This is the first of two round-table discussions that will constitute a meditation on how generosity has shaped, is shaping, and will shape our profession.

Session 19-I Passing It On II (Staffordshire)

Organized and Moderated by Richard Kopley, Penn State DuBois

Regarding that which is most valuable in our profession, our late friend and colleague Joel Myerson encouraged Daniel Shealy to "pass it on" to others. Perhaps it could be a rare object or a remarkable discovery or an archival tip or a critical idea or a valuable piece of advice or simply the pleasure of the work. The two round-table discussions titled "Passing It On" will focus on what has been passed on to us, what we have passed on to others, and what we would like to pass on to those gathered in the room. This is the first of two round-table discussions that will constitute a meditation on how generosity has shaped, is shaping, and will shape our profession.

1. Sandra H. Petrulionis, Penn State Altoona
2. Megan Marshall, Emerson College
3. Phyllis Cole, Penn State Brandywine
4. Robert Sattelmeyer, Georgia State University
6. Daniel Shealy, University of North Carolina, Charlotte

Session 20-B Film Adaptation of Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Blithedale Romance (Great Republic)

Organized by Cody Knotts, Eternity Box Films

This presentation discusses the process of cinematic adaptation involved in making the first feature film based on Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Blithedale Romance including an exclusive first look at several scenes from the project, which is slated for release in 2026. The film is part of a series of previously unadapted classics being brought to the screen by Eternity Box Films in collaboration with literary scholars. Director Cody Knotts will explore the challenges of bringing this complex text to the screen and the ways in which each principal actor's literary advisor helped to shape his or her performance. Knotts will also discuss his production company's upcoming adaptation of Louisa May Alcott's Behind a Mask.

Our adaptation of The Blithedale Romance was made with support and advice from the Nathaniel Hawthorne Society.

Session 20-K Susan Glaspell's Inheritors: A Staged Reading (Adams)

Organized by the International Susan Glaspell Society

This session presents a staged reading of Glaspell's play (abridged by Cheryl Black): 4:00-5:20 pm; Post-show Discussion: 5:30-6:15 pm.

When Susan Glaspell's Inheritors premiered in 1921, America was in the throes of a postwar conservative backlash, as the "100 % Americanism" movement fostered attitudes of isolationism, nationalism, xenophobia, racism, and the suppression of free speech. The play centers on the impact of the movement on a college campus – students from India deported for anti-colonial activism, a student imprisoned for violating the Espionage Act, a professor pressured to keep quiet on political issues, and the political awakening of the play's central character. Described by actor/director Eva Le Gallienne as a "burning challenge to America," the play remains profoundly relevant today.

Participants: Cheryl Black, Anne Fletcher, Jeff Kennedy, Andy Harper, Joseph G. Ramsey, Stuart Hecht, and Lyndsi Skewes
